Every time I make a blog post I'm always amazed at how 5 different readers can immediately post a comment showing me a better way to do something or adding additional information to my original post. I sometimes say to myself, "Muse... it's too bad that programmer doesn't work on your team". Well, here's your big chance.

It just so happens that CF Webtools is looking for an advanced Coldfusion programmer. CF Webtools has an outstanding group of projects using the latest technologies like Flex, Ajax, Farcry and the latest frameworks. CF Webtools does projects for major corporations like ACS, Lincoln Financial, National Equite and Sergeants Pet Care products. This could be your big chance to join us and work on a terrific team. We are located in beautiful Omaha, NE - the Best Kept Secret in the country and consistently ranked among the top 10 places to live in the U.S. We offer an excellent salary, a great place to live, and exciting work. Our benefits include health insurance, life insurance, optional disability, 401k, FSA and flexible hours (so you can put your family first).

If you are interested send your inquiry and resume to jobs@cfwebtools.com. If you want the "official" requirements you will find them on our company web site at this link, but regular muse readers will probably already know exactly what we are looking for.

Note, this is an onsite full time position. CF Webtools will assist with relocation.
